CORONAVIRUS DISEASE 2019 (COVID-19): RESOURCES FOR CONNECTING INDUSTRY CAPABILITIES TO REQUIREMENTS IN SUPPORT OF COVID-19 RESPONSE

4/14/2020

1. The COVID-19 national emergency has led to an incredible outpouring of support from businesses across the country that want to provide products or services to help in the whole-of-government response to the pandemic. It is highly recommended that businesses identify their capabilities to both the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and the Department of Defense’s (DoD’s) COVID-19 Joint Acquisition Task Force (JATF).

   - FEMA’s COVID-19 “How-to-Help” page has a link specifically for the private sector. This page links interested vendors directly to FEMA’s standing RFQ for PPE and Medical Supplies, and also has information for those wishing to offer other products or services: www.fema.gov/coronavirus/how-to-help

   - The DoD’s COVID-19 JATF has launched a “COVID-19 JATF Industry Portal” where interested vendors can fill out a short form to provide information on ways they can help support our nation’s current response and continued resiliency. The Industry Portal is best accessed through the link on the main COVID-19 JATF webpage: https://www.acq.osd.mil/jatf.html
- DPC’s “Contracting with the Department of Defense” provides businesses that have not done business with the government in the past with a step-by-step approach to get started: https://www.acq.osd.mil/dpap/pacc/cc/COVID-19.html

- Services or Defense Agencies that see value in the capability offering from the vendor in question for internal purposes, can be sent directly to their JATF representative at their discretion and within service and agency direction. This guidance does not address or supplant any internal service or Defense Agency guidance regarding the collection of information from interested businesses.

DLA is now accepting Other Transaction Authority whitepapers on the following problem statements. These problem statements support COVID-19: 1. CARES Act - Managing Defense Contracts Impacts of the Novel Coronavirus

Defense contractors can request equitable adjustments for contractual issues related to COVID-19 on a case-by-case basis. Follow these important steps in preparation for possible request for equitable adjustment:

- Communicate with your Contracting Officer (KO)
- Keep good notes including dates, names of people they talked or emailed, and as much as possible, communicate via email for evidence.
- Communicate with your KO as soon as you think you might experience a situation different than what existed when you negotiated/bid on the contract.
- Partner with the KO to get authority to deliver late and try to negotiate a revised delivery schedule, extension, or revised costs. There are likely cases where your subcontractor shuts down and you need to change subs or need to ship from a more expensive location.
- If you don’t get a response from your KO, you should email the agency Small Business Representatives (SBR) for help getting the KO’s attention.

Class Deviation 2020-O0013 - CARES Act Section 3610 Implementation

Effective immediately, contracting officers are authorized to use Defense Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement 231.205-79 (attached to the deviation at the link below) as a framework for implementation of Section 3610 of the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act (Pub. L. 116-136).
The CARES Act was enacted on March 27, 2020, in response to the Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) national emergency. Section 3610 of the CARES Act allows agencies to reimburse, at the minimum applicable contract billing rates (not to exceed an average of 40 hours per week), any paid leave, including sick leave, a contractor provides to keep its employees or subcontractors in a ready state, including to protect the life and safety of Government and contractor personnel, during the public health emergency declared for COVID–19 on January 31, 2020, through September 30, 2020.

Preferential Acceptance and Performance of Contracts or Orders 3/25/2020
"Under Title I of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, the President is authorized to require preferential acceptance and performance of contracts or orders (other than contracts of employment) supporting certain approved national defense and energy programs, and to allocate materials, services, and facilities in such a manner as to promote these approved programs. The Department of Commerce is delegated authority, through Executive Order 13603, to implement these priorities and allocations provisions for industrial resources. The Bureau of Industry and Security administers this authority through the DPAS regulation (15 CFR Part 700). www.bis.doc.gov/index.php/other-areas/strategic-industries-and-economic-security-sies/defense-priorities-a-allocations-system-program-dpas

Familiarize Yourself with Defense Priorities and Allocation System (DPAS) 3/25/2020
PTAC clients may be familiar with the Defense Priorities and Allocation System (DPAS) and how to comply with "DO" and "DX" rated orders and the requirement to prioritize performance of rated orders over non-rated orders. However, some may not be familiar with the "Priorities and Allocation System" and may now receive rated orders from the Departments of Defense, Commerce, Energy, Homeland Security, Health and Human Services, and GSA.
Contractors should understand the following about rated orders.

- Identifying a Rated Contract. Rated contracts generally must include at least four elements: (1) a priority rating (e.g., DO-HR or DX-HR); (2) a specific required delivery date or dates; (3) a signature certifying that the rated order is authorized and regulatory requirements are being followed; and (4) a statement that the rated order is certified for national defense use or is placed in support of emergency preparedness requirements. Rated contracts can come directly from the government or from prime contractors or higher tier subcontractors who hold rated contracts or subcontracts. Subcontractors must comply with rated orders, but when receiving a rated subcontract, subcontractors can and should ask the prime contractor to verify that the prime contract is indeed rated and that the subcontract is necessary to fulfill the prime contract’s requirements. The subcontract should include at least the elements described above.

- Identifying the DPA Authority. It may also be helpful to identify the DPA authority being exercised, i.e., which priorities and allocations system is triggered, and which agency has issued the prime contract. While DPA authority has been delegated and, in some instances, sub-delegated—for example, the DPAS is used by the Departments of Commerce, Defense, Energy, and Homeland Security, as well as the General Services Administration—not every agency directly holds DPA authority.

- Acceptance or Rejection of a Rated Order. A company that is subject to a priorities system generally must reject a rated contract if they are unable to satisfy the contract by the date specified (scheduling conflicts do not constitute an inability to fill the order, unless with another, higher- or identically rated contract). In such cases, the company must offer to fill an order on the earliest acceptable date. A company generally may reject a rated contract on various other specified grounds, including if (1) the prime contractor or higher level subcontractor placing the order is unwilling or unable to meet regularly established terms of sale or payment; (2) the contract is for an item the receiving company does not supply or a service the receiving company is unable to perform, with some exceptions for recent provisions of supplies or services; or (3) the prime contractor or higher level subcontractor placing the rated order (as opposed to the Government) makes the item or performs the service being ordered.

- Sourcing Materials for a Rated Contract. Companies may (and, under HPAS, are required to) generally flow down the rating on their contract to any suppliers in order to obtain items or services needed to fulfill the rated contract—at whatever level throughout the procurement chain.

- Negotiation of Terms for a Rated Contract. Rated contracts must generally follow the terms of the usual dealings among companies. A company receiving a rated contract is prohibited from discriminating against it in any way, for example by charging higher prices or by imposing different terms and conditions than for comparable unrated orders. However, as mentioned above, the entity placing a rated order must be willing and able to meet regularly established terms of sale or payment.

- Potential Breach of Non-Rated Contracts. As mentioned above, rated contracts must be prioritized against non-rated contracts—even if this may cause the contractor to breach the non-rated contract. However, the DPA and the relevant priorities and allocations systems provide that a company cannot be held liable for damages or penalties for any act or failure to act resulting directly or indirectly from compliance with a rated contract. That said, courts have found in the past that the federal government does not have an obligation to reimburse a company for potential lost profits attributable to nonperformance of unrated contracts. www.insidegovernmentcontracts.com/2020/03/the-defense-production-act-and-the-coronavirus-executive-order-key-considerations/

Justification and Approval Threshold for 8(a) Contracts

For procurements valued at $100M or less, KOs are not required to execute a J&A for award of a sole source contract under the 8(a) program. KOs may use the threshold of $100M million in lieu of the $22M threshold in FAR Parts 6 and 19. This class deviation implements section 823 of the NDAA for FY2020. https://smallgovcon.com/8a-program/dod-sole-source-contracts-up-to-100-million-dont-need-justification/

Impact: allows sole source awards to 8(a) concerns owned by an Indian tribe or an Alaska Native Corporation without a J&A (up to $100M). For sole source awards (> $7M) to other 8(a) concerns, if there is not a reasonable expectation that at least two eligible 8(a) participants will submit offers at a fair price, the AA/BD may accept the requirement for a sole source 8(a) award if he or she determines that an eligible Participant in the 8(a) portfolio is capable of performing the requirement at a fair price.

The plan would provide $300 billion in loans for small businesses, $50 billion in loans for passenger air carriers, $8 billion in loans for cargo air carriers, and an additional $150 billion in loans for other affected industries. The plan would also appropriate $500 billion in direct payments for individuals on a tiered income scale. Under the plan, individuals making up to $75,000 would qualify for a $1,200 payment, with the payment for individuals above this threshold decreasing until $99,000, at which payments are phased out completely.
